A WEEKLY JOURNAL.
S. MORRIS HULIN, Editor and Proprietor.
Office 29 Broad Street.
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1895.

Our Candidate for Governor,
JOHN W. GRIGGS.

Candidate Griggs struck the keynote of the New Jersey campaign when he said in Central Hall that the people were greater than any political party. Bosses and leaders are of use—yes, they are indispensable in conducting a campaign, and should be well paid for their services, but it is essential to have a candidate who will not owe a debt of gratitude to any boss, but be guided and governed only by the true interests of the commonwealth after his election. John W. Griggs is such a candidate, and as such he will be elected, unless it can be demonstrated to a reasonable certainty that Chancellor McGill would be able to beat him on this single issue—Independence of party bosses.

One thing can be clearly asserted at the start—the nomination of Mr. Griggs was not dictated, if indeed it was even desired, by any of the party bosses attached to the Republican party. And this is the fact that gives inspiration and imparts enthusiasm to the Griggs campaign.

It is a campaign backed by honest independence, that will win a victory because it deserves to win it.

Political Notes.
Alfred H. Edgerly of (Washington, who has been nominated on the Prohibition ticket for the General Assembly, will receive considerable support in that section.

Henry Russell, formerly of Bloomfield, a real estate agent of Belleville, is a candidate for the Assembly on the Prohibition ticket.

Assemblyman Frederick W. Mook decided on Tuesday night not to be a candidate for re-election. His employers in New York had decided to allow him the time necessary for his duties as Assemblyman.

The Democrats of Bloomfield held a meeting at No. 31 Broad Street on Tuesday night and organized for the campaign with the following officers: President, John F. Dillon; Vice President, Michael N. Higgins; Secretary, Peter J. Quinn; Treasurer, Wm. R. Courter. A committee was appointed to complete arrangements for a mass meeting which will be held shortly before election.

About twenty Glen Ridge Republicans met on Wednesday night, pursuant to a call of the Executive Committee, and resolved to organize a club. A committee was appointed to present nominations of officers to be voted for immediately after the Primary on the night of October 21st.

Essex County Building and Loan Association.
The annual meeting of the Essex County Building and Loan Association will be held next Tuesday night in Dodd's Hall, Glenwood Avenue, for the purpose of receiving the report of the Treasurer and Auditing Committee.

The terms of F. E. Langstroth, Peter F. Foster, Sr., Philip Becker and Frank B. Stone as Directors expire. All of the gentlemen are candidates for re-election. As they have given entire satisfaction to the stockholders they will not doubt be re-elected for three years. There will also be an election of three shareholders, who are not directors, as members of the Auditing Committee for one year. The payment of interest, due fees, and any other business that may properly come from the meeting. Polls open from 8.30 to 10 o'clock.

Sons of Veterans.
All sons of veterans of the late war who are 18 years of age and over are currently requested to be present at a meeting to be held in G. A. R. Hall, Glenwood Avenue, on Tuesday evening, October 15, 1895, for the purpose of organizing a camp of the Sons of Veterans. Division Commander Geo. W. Pollitt, of Paterson, and several members of other camps will be present. Wm. S. Pierson, Post No. 58, G. A. R., and all veterans of the late war are also invited.

The Registry.
The house-to-house canvass of the Board of Registry was completed this afternoon. The approximate result as near as could be ascertained at the time of going to press is as follows: First Ward, 671; Second Ward, 387; Third Ward, First District, 390; Second District, 430; total, 1068. Glen Ridge, 370.

REPUBLICAN ENTHUSIASM.

Griggs Mass Meeting in Central Hall.

Central Hall was filled on Tuesday night where a tousing mass meeting was held. Prominent Republicans who sat on the stage were: Director Thomas McGowan of the Board of Freeholders, Thomas Oakes, G. Leo Stout, Benjamin Haskell, Halley M. Barrett, S. Morris Hulm, N. H. Dodd, T. E. Hayes, Judge J. G. Post, Dr. S. C. Hamilton, Dr. V. L. Lockwood and Nathan Russell. In front were Congressmen R. Wayne Parker, Charles N. Fowler and Chairman George W. Cook, who called the meeting to order shortly after 8 o'clock. Director McGowan nominated Mr. Cook for chairman and he was elected unanimously. Mr. Cook in accepting the chairmanship made a few remarks and then introduced Mr. Carl Lentz, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, who spoke on local matters, briefly reviewing the facts that led to the overthrow of the Democratic party in Essex County and the Legislature, graphically picturing his experience at Trenton during the attempt of the Democrats to steal the State Senate, which act of high treason, as he termed it, was due to the desperation of the Democratic politicians to prevent the exposure of corruption and fraud that they knew must certainly come if the Republicans secured control.

The investigation into the Chicago World's Fair commission, he also said, would show a startling picture of extravagance and debauchery. "Barney" Ford's magnanimous hospitality at the State House afforded the Major a theme for pointing out numerous flagrant instances of rascality. "When the people are confronted with that rascality," exclaimed the speaker, "will they rise in their might and rebuke it by the election of the nominee of the Republicans or will they countenance it by the election of the candidate of the Democrats?"

Here are some of the shots fired by the Major at the Democratic nominee: "What will you do with Henry C. Kelsey, Secretary of State?" "What will you do with Allan McDermott, the chief conspirator of them all?" "Why don't the Democratic candidate come before the people and sell them what he intends to do respecting these men and their conduct?" At 8 o'clock the Republican nominee for Governor arrived, escorted by Assemblyman George P. Olcott of East Orange and C. W. Powers of Bloomfield. Major Lentz was still speaking when Mr. Griggs entered the hall. The band struck up "Hail to the Chief" amid great enthusiasm. Mr. Griggs received with ringing cheers by the assembled Republicans, and Chairman Cook introduced him as the next Governor. When Mr. Griggs stepped forward he was greeted with more applause, and when he saluted he said that the Bloomfield sort of enthusiasm was prevalent all over the State of New Jersey. Never in his experience had he witnessed such enthusiasm as prevailed in New Jersey at this time.

"The Democrats," continued Mr. Griggs, "had established an oligarchy in the State and in the counties. It was a system of smaller bosses paying tribute to larger bosses. The legislative power was made the tool for registering the will of the Democratic bosses." The "Big Four" of the Democracy, James Smith, Miles Ross, Nelson Pidcock and Allan McDermott exercised supreme power over the Legislature, such as was never exercised before by any tyrannical power on the earth. The "Big Four" was the Legislature. They passed on every bill, and if they and the Governor did not agree it did not go before the Legislature. If they did approve of it, it went through. In one session of the Legislature over 200 bills, all political measures, were passed by the Democratic caucus.

The speaker then proceeded to illustrate the methods of the Democratic bosses, the ring which the people are fighting to-day. "The railroad companies," he said, "made their plan of combination, and afterward made the discovery that their combination was illegal, and they went to the Democratic caucus. One of the 'Big Four' took the bill to a Democratic member from Essex County and told him to pass that bill. The same thing was done in the Senate. The Democratic members said they passed the bill because the leaders told them to do so, and that they were party measures. These same leaders are in power in the Democratic party to-day.

They are now seeking to get around the degree of judgment that the people have passed upon them by nominating the highest judicial officer in the State. The people want to see this Democratic ring uprooted. They want to see a party control the affairs of the State that will not be under any debt of gratitude to the 'Big Four.' They believe that political crimes should be punished by the judgment of the people. "The Republican party has pledged to the people a government of honesty conducted on substantial business principles. It offers an economical, honest administration of State government."

"I do not believe in partisan legislation. Let the people understand that the State will be run in the interest of the people and not of the Republican party. The camp-fires are lighted from Sussex to Cape May. The people are aroused and we are going to win because we deserve to win." The candidate concluded his speech amid another outburst of enthusiasm and left the hall in the care of Messrs. A. C. Stader, A. S. Badgley and J. H. Wilson, Montclair Republicans. Mr. Griggs' earnestness and force captivated the audience from the start and left a very favorable impression on the minds of the voters.

Congressman R. Wayne Parker of Newark was next introduced. He paid a glowing tribute to the personal merits of the Republican candidate for Governor, John W. Griggs, his honesty, candor and fearlessness. Mr. Parker spoke of the vital power yet maintained by the "Big Four" in Democratic circles. He said that not only was a good Governor needed but good Assemblymen were also needed. Congressman Charles N. Fowler followed Mr. Parker. "Union County next month," Mr. Fowler said, "will be a Republican County and will give nearly 2000 Republican majority." The speaker then proceeded to contrast the opposing candidates, showing the superiority of their social and political careers up to the time of their nomination. He reviewed the practices of the Democratic party in depriving the people of their rights and displaying a greater degree of rascality than has ever before occurred in legislation.

The coal combine, he continued, and the race track were fathered by the Democrats. In stealing the Senate they insulted the intelligence of the people of New Jersey by presuming that they did not know that eleven was more than ten. No State has a ten years' history as black and disgraceful as that of New Jersey for the ten years previous to 1893. National issues are not before you now. We will discuss those next year. We do not care for the man in the cellar over in New York if there is a thief at our own house. It is a question with us to catch the thief.

The Democratic party held a convention and nominated Alexander T. McGill for Governor. How did they do it? Duke Thompson rose in his place in the convention and said that they would like "Bill" Daly to nominate Chancellor McGill. Would this man who was nominated and who is the personification of gratitude be so ungrateful as to destroy his maker, the Duke of Gloucester?

Mr. Fowler closed with an eloquent appeal to vote for John W. Griggs and victory. Loud applause greeted this sentiment.

The meeting closed with three cheers for John W. Griggs.
